respiratory organs have little to fear. THERE IS DANGER IN EVERY BREATH to persons whose air passages have become weakened by coughs and cold during the winter.

If we breathe we must inhale these germs, and once in the bronchial tubes and lungs, they cannot be reached except by inhalation. According to the United States Health Reports published January 5, 1900, there is but one remedy that will destroy these germs and which can be inhaled. This statement is backed up by the endorsement of thirty-eight hundred respectable physicians, and should be sufficient evidence to prove that the only hops for those suffering from cataril, bronchitis and consumption is to use HYOMEI; that the only protection which persons troubled with weak respiratory organs have against these diseases is

We found out later that our company of 65 men had been fighting 1,500 Filipinos, But as not, many of them have guns, they cannot stand the rapid fire from our Krag-Jorgensons. We did not have a man hurt in the scrap. The enemy burned the towns near here in one night. There was one company in one town and two in the other. There was a large stone church in each town, and they were not burned, and that was where the Americans were stationed, but the Filipinos were cutting their own heads off by burning up the towns, as that is what we want, and it does them a great amount of harm, as they have but few places to hide."
